Vinyasa Sequence To Release Emotions

This sequence leverages hip-openers, axial extension and axial flexion to work in the liver and gallbladder line to release emotions being held in the somatic tissue. This sequence is for all levels of practitioner. We highly recommend offering modifications to meet your students where they are at in their practice.

Setting Up The Breath

Meet on the back in constructive rest with feet as wide as the mat and the knees knocked in to the midline. Students can place one hand on the heart and one hand on the abdomen. Rest here for several minutes and bring students' awareness to the breath. (This is an opportunity to get the class synchronized energetically and to have everyone cue in on the breath as a felt sensation).
